

WOMEN SAFETY

Women in independent India are comparatively in a more respectable position. Some of the problems which had been haunting the community of women for centuries are not found now. Problems such as child marriage, practice of 'sati', prohibition on widow remarriage, exploitation of widows, devadasi system, purdah system, etc. have almost disappeared. Development in the field of science and technology, universalisation of education, socio-political movements, modernisation and similar developments have changed the approach of people towards women to a certain extent. The Constitution of India provides equal rights and opportunities to women. It does not make any discrimination on the grounds of sex. Indian women are also responding positively to this changed socio-political situation. This does not mean that our women are completely free from problems.

PROBLEM STATEMENT

On the contrary, the changing situation is causing them new problems. They are now beset with new stresses and strains.

one of the major problem haunting modern women is

Increasing Crimes against Women:

Crime against women is an ever-increasing problem. This problem has been growing more and more acute in India during the recent years. Crimes against women include violence against women, rape, molestation, dowry harassment, wife-battering, kidnapping female children to be sold into brothel homes, forcible embracement, forcible religious conversion, cheating young women with a promise to marry them or fetch them a job and various types of sexual harassments and abuse of women including eve teasing.

SCOPE OF THE PROBLEM

1. Is this problem being faced only by women?
2. What is the safety level of women in today, world?
3. How can the technology be used to solve this problem?
4. What kind of safety measures do women expect when they are in any emergent situation?
